Call for Research Participants!

Transgender and Gender Diverse Students in Nepal

We invite Transgender and Gender Diverse (TGD) students from Nepal to take part in an international research study:
"Minority Stress and Dissociative Experiences among Transgender and Gender Diverse Students in Educational Settings: A Multi-Country Study in Selected Asian Contexts"

About the study

This study aims to better understand how experiences of minority stress, such as discrimination, stigma, rejection, and gender-related challenges, are associated with dissociative experiences among TGD students across Asia.

You may be eligible if you:

- are between 18 and 24 years old
- self-identify as transgender or gender diverse
- are currently enrolled in a school, college, university, or other educational institution
- currently reside in Nepal
- are able to complete a survey in English

Online survey • About 20 minutes • Confidential • Completely voluntary

For doubts, queries and/or further information, contact

Dr. Prakat Karki (Project Lead- Nepal)
School Counseling and Wellbeing Unit, Kathmandu University School of Education
Email: prakat.karki@kusoed.edu.np | Phone: +977-9808932897
www.theresearchnavigator.com/tgd-study

Dr. Marc Eric Reyes (Principal Investigator), University of Santo Tomas, Philippines
Email: msreyes@ust.edu.ph

Dr. Nguyen Dinh Nhu Ha (Principal Investigator), Nong Lam University, Vietnam
Email: handn.ncs@hcmute.edu.vn

Scan to take part in the survey

Ethics Approval: Far Eastern University – University Research Ethics Office (REB-2026-283)
Universiti Malaysia Sabah – Medical Research Ethics Committee (EC2600132)